

Renovations that you should call your insurance broker about

If you're like many other Canadian homeowners who have recently come out of the pandemic, chances are you have either completed some type of renovation or have something planned in the future. Here's a list of situations that are important to review with your broker ahead of time.

Read more at www.otip.com/article148.

